

Please make the following changes to the Abstract:

ABSTRACT

The invention relates to indicating the size limit of messages, particularly multimedia messages, to the user. A device according to the invention includes an application program for composing multimedia messages. A multimedia message size limit defined by the network is registered in the device, so that it is available for the application and can be indicated to the user in ~~said~~the application composing multimedia messages.

Figure 2